

VOTERS OF NORTH PLEDGE SUPPORT TO TOM CAMPBELL

Democrats And Republicans Alike Tell Tall Sycamore Of Yavapai They Are Strong For Him.

SNOWFLAKE, Sept. 2.—The center of a rich agricultural and stock country, Snowflake is one of the most prosperous towns in Navajo county. The majestic Lombardy poplars, the verdure of the fields, the substantial buildings, the comfortable homes, and most important of all to the traveler, the good meals, make this place a welcome spot on an overland trip.

Tom Campbell, who is touring the State, so expressed himself when he arrived here today from Holbrook. Mr. Campbell was hailed as the next governor of Arizona when he was taken about the town and introduced to the people informally. Snowflake is a Republican precinct, although the voters are independent in selecting the men they vote for. They know Mr. Campbell better now that he has visited them, and there is no doubt of the vote he will receive here in November.

The town of Snowflake did not get its name from an itinerant snowflake from the White mountains. On the contrary, the name really means something, and preserves the early history of the settlement. A man named Flake was the first settler in the place, and later on Bishop Snow realized the possibilities of the valley for homemaking and organized an ecclesiastical ward of the Mormon faith here. The settlement grew rapidly and when it began to take on the air of a real town the people decided to pay tribute to the two men who had been its founder, so they combined the names of Mr. Snow and Mr. Flake, both of which made a Snowflake which the summer suns can never melt.

Mr. Campbell was surprised to find the academy here with nearly 200 students promised for the coming year. The attendance last year was 125. J. Edward Johnson is principal of the school, and Samuel F. Smith, well-known in Arizona, is president of the institution. The academy is entirely supported by the Mormon church, and was built at a cost of $35,000, the entire sum having been raised by subscription among the people.

R. C. Smith is publisher, and De Elmer Jones, is editor of the Snowflake Herald, an enterprising and newsy weekly paper, which claims the largest circulation in Navajo county, and stands ready to furnish the proof, it proclaims. The Herald carried beneath its head the following boast:

"Population of Snowflake, 900; surrounding population 16,000; composed of a prosperous farming and stock-raising community; annual sunshine 90 per cent."

If the Herald would include in this boast: "The most hospitable people, the prettiest girls, and the best eats," the story would be complete.

The Campbell party left this afternoon for St. Johns the county seat of Apache county where the candidates will speak at a public meeting which has been arranged by the Republicans of that place.

Talks On Taxation.

ST. JOHNS, Sept. 4.—The first Republican meeting to be held in St. Johns this year occurred last night. Tom Campbell, Republican candidate for governor, was the principal speaker. Fred Nelson presided at the gathering of citizens in the opera house. Doane Merrill, Republican candidate for State auditor; George H. Smalley, who wants to succeed Tom Campbell as a member of the State tax commission, and Dr. Nelson, candidate for the nomination on the Republican ticket for congress, also addressed the meeting. The people expressed themselves as well pleased with the excellent showing the Republican invaders made. Dr. Nelson is traveling alone in his auto and happened to be in St. Johns when the Campbell party arrived and was invited to speak.

Tom Campbell confined his speech to taxation matters, and the disfranchisement of voters in Arizona by the Democrats. He told of the progress of mine taxation and its effect in reducing the portion that other classes of property now pay towards the cost of State government. For years, he said, the mines paid very little taxes, and farm lands and other classes of property bore the heavy burden. He spoke of his own connection with taxation problems from the beginning of the constructive movement in this State, and of his attitude in opposing a mine taxation law. He said that the present plan of leaving the taxation of mines to the State tax commission was apparently satisfactory to the people.

Mr. Campbell referred to the issue of mine taxation raised by the Hunt-Olney combatants, and said it was laughable to those who know the facts. Neither of the Democratic candidates for governor knows anything about taxation matters he contended. Hunt was governor when a mine taxation law was passed and if he opposed such a statute he should have vetoed the bill when it was passed up to him. As a matter of fact Governor Hunt sent a special message to the first State legislature urging the passage of a special mine tax law. This, too, against the counsel of his representatives or whips in both houses of the legislature.

Speaking of the disfranchisement of the pioneer builders of Arizona among the Mexican people, Mr. Campbell roundly scored the Democrats for depriving many worthy citizens of the right to vote. He said that he personally knew many of the pioneers of Apache county and other counties who had helped to build up the State only to find themselves deprived of the right to vote because some of them were Republicans. Many of the wealthiest men in Northern Arizona, he said, were now denied the ballot by the Democratic party's action in passing the disfranchisement law. Among those disfranchised were counted some of the heaviest taxpayers in the State, and Mr. Campbell said that if he is elected governor he would urge the legislature to amend the iniquitous law so as to give back to the pioneers the privilege of a voice in the State's affairs through the ballot. Taxation without representation, he said, was just as reprehensible now as it was during the regime of that other George III. Men who enlisted in the Mexican war, who fought under the Stars and Stripes, who made it possible for this State to be what it is today, men who labored and grew up at a time when there were no schools in the Territory of Arizona, should not be disfranchised because of their failure to read and write English. These men, he said, read and wrote the Spanish language, and many of them are highly educated in Spanish.

The Campbell party stopped at Concho, en route to St. Johns. They found at least one place in Arizona where Republicans are not registered as Democrats. There are 80 Republicans and 12 Democrats in Concho. From the reception the party received at Concho it is an open question as to whether the 12 Democrats are not now Tom Campbell Democrats. Arizona is full of them this year.

Will Carry Apache County.

SPRINGVILLE, Sept. 5.—The auto trip of Tom Campbell, Republican candidate for governor, was halted at this place today by reports from the White Mountain country that the White and Black rivers were impassable. Heavy rains have occurred in the White mountains this summer and a big storm is raging on the mountains today. The telephone line to Fort Apache and White River station is down, and travel in that direction from Springville is abandoned by everyone.

Mr. Campbell and party arrived here last evening and expected to leave this morning for Globe over the mountains. Having the choice of the route through New Mexico to Eastern Arizona, or by way of Flagstaff to Pine, Payson and Globe, the latter route was chosen, and the Campbell party left early this morning expecting to make the 200-mile run to Flagstaff today and leave that place early the next day for Payson. They will stop at all points between Flagstaff and Globe.

Upon the arrival of the Campbell party yesterday, the people of Springville arranged for a public meeting at the opera house, and there was a crowded house when the meeting began. After the speaking the hall was cleared and dancing was indulged in until a late hour.

The candidates made an excellent impression here. They visited Eager during yesterday afternoon meeting the people informally. Many Eager residents came over for the meeting here, and there were a great many farmers from the surrounding country present to hear the speakers.

As in all places except Concho, the Campbell party found many Republicans registered as Democrats to help either Hunt or Olney in the governorship primary contest.

The Republicans of Apache county will have a full ticket in the field for the November election and they have entered into the fight to win. They contend that Tom Campbell will carry Apache county. The Republican leaders told Mr. Campbell that there are 300 Republicans and independents registered as Democrats this year in Apache county.

WOMEN RESOLUTE ON SUFFRAGE QUESTION

(From Saturday's Daily.)

The following resolutions were adopted at a meeting of Democratic women held in this city yesterday, there being about 40 present:

Be It Resolved, That We, the Democratic Women Voters of Yavapai County, do hereby:

1. Condemn in unmeasured terms the action of certain women political workers, belonging to the Congressional Union, who are operating in this section under the guise of securing the passage of the Susan B. Anthony amendment to the Constitution of the United States, but who appear to be in the employ of the Republican national committee, and their sole purpose to create sentiment in favor of Charles E. Hughes, and the Republican candidates for congress, as against Woodrow Wilson and the Democratic candidates for congress. And we wish to go on record as absolutely repudiating the actions of these spurious workers, and to warn the other women of this State to look carefully into their motives before giving them any credence whatsoever.

2. We warn all women not to be misled by their claims: Deeds versus Talk. In the Fall of 1915 proposed women's suffrage amendments to the Constitution of New York and New Jersey were submitted to the voters of those States. President Wilson made a special trip from Washington to Princeton to register and another to vote for "votes for women." The records of the board of elections of New York county fail to disclose that Mr. Hughes either registered or voted on this occasion. Furthermore, the records show that since 1910 Mr. Hughes has neglected to exercise at all the right of suffrage—the highest duty of a citizen.

During 30 years of Republican rule the Susan B. Anthony amendment has been steadily voted down by the Republican party and Republican presidents.

3. We consider it a reflection on the intelligence of the women of the West that these outsiders shall presume to come to the suffrage States and dictate to us how we shall vote.

4. We do not wish to antagonize any organization or party, but feel it necessary to make this public protest to the methods adopted by these workers, as we believe they are really retarding the great cause of national suffrage. COMMITTEE.

TWO NATIVE SONS PROVE GOOD SPEAKERS

(From Saturday's Daily.)

The "native sons" program given at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon at the Yavapai Club yesterday noon was one of the most enjoyable presented this year. The two speakers, Gail Gardner and Perry Ling, both proved to be speakers that Prescott should be proud of and both were in turn proud of the fact that they were born here.

Gardner gave a witty talk in which he referred to the fact that when a fellow grows up in his home town his past escapades are liable to follow him through life and prevent him from being successful. Gardner asked that everyone overlook the past history of all native sons and help them to become good citizens.

Perry Ling, who acted as chairman of the luncheon, spoke in an interesting manner of past history and told of the first native sons and the efforts of those who were born later to do everything in their power for the good of the State.

The next luncheon will be given one week from next Tuesday, instead of Friday, the day being changed on account of the meeting of the State Board of Trade in Prescott. All members of the board will attend and take part in a big "Arizona Boosters" program.

SPRING COMPANY IS INCORPORATED

(From Saturday's Daily.)

Articles of incorporation for the Non-Breakable Spring Manufacturing Company were filed with the county recorder yesterday. The incorporators are A. V. Mulvenon and Robert C. Hartin and the company is capitalized at $50,000. The principal business of the company will be the manufacture of an invention called the "reinforced pivoted-mounted vehicle spring."

GOOD ROADS AID IN DEVELOPMENT OF INDUSTRY

MINES THAT HAVE BEEN DORMANT FOR YEARS NOW SHOWING NEW SIGNS OF LIFE.

(By William P. De Wolf)

An important factor in the speeding up of the mining industry that is everywhere apparent in Yavapai county, is the system of good roads that is being established for the purpose of bringing the outlying mines and camps into touch with the county's main business center at Prescott and with each other. Much has already been accomplished along these lines, and as a result this county can justly lay claim to some of the best-graded and scenic roads in Arizona. Notably the Copper Basin road which puts this city in easy transit communication with the copper areas of that section; the Groom creek road which serves a like purpose for the camp of Senator; the Lynx creek road connecting with the smelter at Humboldt and the mines of that locality, and the Cherry creek road that gives access to Jerome, Clarkdale and the mines of the Verde valley country.

More recently the distance from here to Phoenix has been appreciably shortened by reconstructing the old government trail through Black canyon. This piece of road building has put the Tiptop and other mines of the Tiptop country in touch with Prescott and has added to the pleasure of travel by auto as well. The Groom creek road is being extended beyond Senator to tap the rich mineral-bearing Crown King country and other portions of the Bradshaws, and consideration is being given by the county commissioners to a plan for shortening the road between here and Jerome. The latter plan has the support of a majority of the mining and business men of Jerome and Clarkdale.

Coloradoans Invest.

Colorado Springs capital is interested in the development of the property of the Montezuma Mining Company in the Bradshaw mountains, near Crown King. The acreage has an excellent mineral showing, and the Coloradoans have supplied sufficient money to open it at depth and to provide the necessary mine machinery. A camp is being established and a dozen camp buildings are under construction. J. P. Waldron, a former Colorado mining man, is in charge of the company's affairs. The Montezuma had been undergoing development for eight years before the present operators became identified with it, and during that time large and valuable silver-gold ore bodies were opened. These ore bodies, aside from their precious metal contents, carry pay values in lead and zinc. Among the improvements the management has in view is a reduction plant so equipped as to reclaim the lead and zinc as well as the silver and gold contents of the ores. This is to be brought about by installing the oil-floatation process. David Gemmill, of the Randolph-Gemmill Reduction works, at Crown King, has solved a treatment by floatation for the base ores of that section and is successfully utilizing it at his plant.

In fact, the Gemmill improvement to the oil-floatation process has, more than any other single factor, been instrumental in the renewal of mining operations in the Bradshaw mountains, with the result that work is more animated there at present than in many years. High grade ore has in the past been the rule rather than the exception in the mines throughout the Bradshaws, and now a treatment adapted to the sulphide ores disclosed in their lower levels has been evolved many of the old-time producers are again on the active list. Among them are the Crown King, Wildflower, Fairview, Nelson, Lincoln, Tiger Gold, Tiger Silver and the War Eagle Gladiators. During the heyday of their prosperity these and other mines in the Bradshaws produced ore carrying from $250 to $1,000 per ton in gold and silver.

A camp has been established at Hell Hole, near Crown King, by the Algonkian Mines Company, a corporation which is backed by Philadelphia capitalists. Work is being prosecuted under the supervision of A. J. Heath, a former Utah mining man. The holdings were originally developed by the Shurtleiffs and resulted in the opening of commercial ore in considerable tonnage. The present management will continue work at the point where the former operators ceased operations and will continue it to greater depth. The property lies a few miles east of Crown King station in a section noted for the high precious-metal contents of its ores. The plans of the company include the building of a narrow-gauge railroad to connect with the plant of the Randolph-Gemmill Reduction Company at Crown King.

The Silver Belt mine, one of the oldest mining properties in Yavapai county, is shipping ore to the Gray Eagle Reduction plant at Mayer. In fact, the Silver Belt mine was the first patron of that recently constructed plant. The ore shipped is complex and runs about $25 per ton—principal values being lead, silver and zinc. The large tonnage of ore on the old dumps is first to be marketed. When it has been disposed of the extensive ore bodies blocked out in the workings will be drawn upon for a further tonnage.

Lucky Five to Resume.

Plans are well advanced for the resumption of operations at the property of the Lucky Five Mining Company in Copper Basin. A. M. Horton, president of the company, and one of the original locators of the 16 claims included in the estate, recently returned from California, where he has extensive placer interests, for the purpose of directing development work. The property is favorably known for its mineral showing and is considered one of the most promising in the Copper Basin country. Values—as demonstrated by a sample shipment of 1,000 pounds—approximately $37 per ton in copper, gold and silver. The old workings, from which the sample referred to was taken, are to be unwatered, and the shaft connecting therewith sunk to greater depth.

Sheelite ore having a value of $340 per ton, exclusive of its silver and gold contents, was recently discovered in the Flora mine in the Hassayampa country. The find was made in the face of a 200-foot tunnel and is said to present unmistakable indications of permanency. This tunnel is to be extended 200 feet further into the hill, where it will have a depth from surface of 300 feet on the vein. The owners, Valentine Albarrado, John Bernard and Louis Bernard, have been working the property for the past two years as a silver proposition with considerable success. The estate is located near the old Mescal millsite, about ten miles south of Prescott.

Jerome-Portland Busy.

Four jack-hammers and two shifts of miners are employed in deepening the shaft on the property of the Jerome-Portland Company in the Verde copper belt. The shaft has at present a depth of 110 feet and is being sunk at the rate of three feet per shift. Yellow sulphides are frequently encountered. The hoist, compressor and other mine machinery recently installed are working satisfactorily.

The mill on the Copper Chief Company's property near Jerome is treating 130 tons of gold ore daily and is making an excellent recovery by means of the cyanide process. The company will resume shipments of copper ore to the Humboldt smelter as soon as the sampler at that plant is rebuilt. The latter was recently destroyed by fire.

A dozen camp buildings are under construction near the site selected for the main-working shaft on the property of the Green Monster Mining Company in the Verde field. The buildings include two bunk houses, with accommodations for forty men, boarding house, store house, office building, residence for the superintendent, and a club house. The new shaft will be sunk on the diorite side of the main contact about 300 feet distant from the Revenue tunnel. The work will begin just as soon as the large plant of machinery, now en route to the property, has been installed. It is expected to deepen the shaft at the rate of 125 feet per month.

CROWN KING ROAD IS BEING OPENED

(From Saturday's Daily.)

The old Crown King stage road, impassable until recently, is now open to traffic as far as Palace Station, a distance of 23 miles and, within the next few days, seven more miles of the road will have been opened up. The work is being done under the direction of Road Supervisor Tom Madden, who says that when the road is completed it will be as good as any in the county. Tom has seven husky men on his road gang now who, he says, are the best workers he ever had.

In contrast to the condition of the Crown King road are the reports brought to Prescott by motorists regarding the road to Montezuma's Well. After leaving the main road, it is said, the route is very bad. Motorists are also urging the posting of all grades and curves on the road between Dewey and Cherry creek, where several speedy auto stage drivers are said to have barely missed knocking other automobiles off the road.

PNEUMONIA CLAIMS WELL KNOWN MINER

(From Thursday's Daily.)

The remains of Daniel Singleton were brought to Prescott yesterday from Butte, Mont., for burial in Mountain View cemetery, his sister, Miss Hannah Singleton, and aunt, Mrs. Margaret Dillon, accompanying the body from Kingman. Mr. Singleton passed away on August 28 last, at Butte from pneumonia and his remains are to be laid by the side of a son of Mrs. Dillon in the family plot.

The death of this well known miner will be learned with expressions of sorrow, in many camps of this field, where he was widely known and enjoyed very much popularity. He was aged 36 years. Funeral services will be held this morning at 9 o'clock at the Catholic church, Lester Ruffner conducting the burial.

FATAL AFFLICTION

(From Saturday's Daily.)

Davis Garrett, a well known old-time Arizonan, passed away Thursday from cancer of the throat, and his remains were shipped yesterday by W. M. Poulson & Co., to Hackberry, Mohave county, for burial. He was the father of Mrs. W. L. Kayser, of this city, and had been operating mines in Mohave county for many years, enjoying an excellent name for his industry and upright dealings. Mr. and Mrs. Kayser accompanied the remains. Mr. Garrett was aged 77 years, and was a native of Philadelphia.

For quick and artistic job work, the Journal-Miner is the place.

BRYAN TO STUMP ARIZONA FOR DEMOCRACY

WILL DELIVER AN ADDRESS IN PRESCOTT ON SEPT. 15; OTHER DATES ALSO ANNOUNCED.

(From Saturday's Daily.)

William Jennings Bryan is coming to Arizona on behalf of Democracy, and is scheduled to deliver an address at the Elks' theatre in Prescott on September 15th.

This information was received yesterday by J. H. Robinson, in a telegram from Fred T. Colter, national committeeman of Arizona, who resides in Apache county, who also had been advised to this effect by Hon. Homer S. Cummings, of New York City, chairman of the speakers' bureau. Mr. Bryan will make his first address at Tucson on September 11, and then at Phoenix on September 13. Only three dates have been set aside for him in this State. Of his movements after leaving Prescott nothing is known.

A son of Mr. Bryan is now in Prescott, Assistant U. S. Attorney Bryan, who is in attendance on the Federal court, which will remain in session for several days. He is quite happy over soon meeting his father, and stated he will endeavor to have him remain in this section for several days to enjoy a rest, and to visit many places of interest adjacent. Mr. Bryan visited Arizona during the presidential campaign of 1900, delivering an address on the Plaza. He was a brief visitor in later years, also, and is personally known to many residents.

HOPI DANCE FROWNED ON BY UNCLE SAM

(From Saturday's Daily.)

That the United States government frowns upon the annual Hopi Indian snake dance which is held every year by the savage remnant of the Moqui tribe in the northern part of Arizona was the statement made by Leo Crane, superintendent of the Moqui Indian reservation where the dances are held.

According to Crane these dances are the last relics of barbarism exhibited by the savage race in the country today and are the only surviving dances which still hold sway among the native tribes.

At the dance held last week at the villages of Oraibi and Hoteville, the "Snake Priests" of the Hoteville village were all arrested by Superintendent Crane in an endeavor to stamp out the practice. The dance, however, is so mixed up with the religious beliefs of the native that it is almost impossible to make any headway in preventing the ceremony.

About 200 white people witnessed the dances held this year which were participated in by about 600 natives. There are to be two more of the ceremonies held at other villages yet this fall. A curious fact in regard to the Hopis is that they have no central organization in their tribe. There are about 2,500 of the natives in the reservation which is bounded on all sides by the Navajos and they live in separate groups or communities, each village administers its own affairs having nothing in common with the other settlements. Any disputes occurring are settled by each band separately, even when the question at issue has to do with the white man.

At the recent dance held at Oraibi a small child was bitten by an enormous rattler and although ill for a few hours, soon recovered.

Crane says that he hopes in the course of the next few years to stamp out the dance entirely as it has the effect of undoing to a large extent, the beneficial effects of the schooling given the young Indians. The government spends in the neighborhood of $200,000 annually for educational purposes among the Hopis and much of this is wasted through the counter-teachings of the "Snake Priests," who control the religious belief of the people.

Government regulations are becoming stricter every year in regard to the witnessing of the dance, and it is the hope of Crane to exclude the public entirely, as the presence of the white man seems to act as an incentive to the Indian in the performance of the barbaric custom.

COUNTRY PEOPLE MARRY

(From Friday's Daily.)

Judge Chas. H. McLane united in marriage last night William H. Rush and Mae Wilson, both of Verde valley. Quite a number of friends of the principals were present. A wedding supper followed. Mr. and Mrs. Rush return today to Camp Verde, their future home.

OLD SILVER BELT PREPARING FOR BIG WORK

CALIFORNIA OPERATORS TO START DEEP DEVELOPMENT; NEW CAMP IS BEING BUILT.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

The reviving recently of the old Silver Belt mines, near Humboldt, has resulted in operations being outlined for deep development that will give to this early-day silver-lead holding very much prominence.

The first move will be to incorporate under the title of the Silver Belt Consolidated Mining Co. George L. Prentiss, of California, is to be president, Benjamin Rybon of this city, vice-president, and A. C. Roland, of Los Angeles, general manager. Mr. Prentiss will arrive today, while Mr. Roland has already taken charge as superintendent. The rebuilding of the camp has started, lumber and material having been forwarded from this city. Electrically-propelled machinery is to be introduced, and development calls for a new shaft of 1,000 feet in depth to be sunk at a point on the group near the lines of the Arizona, now active by Anderson & Birch. All identified with the Silver Belt are practical mining people, and before the deal was closed several examinations were made of the old workings. The property under the new arrangement is to be energetically operated, and production for months to come will not be considered.

R. H. Burmister, who had owned the property for over a third of a century, stated yesterday the formal transfer had taken place, but withheld the consideration. The belt on which is situated this property is attaining marked attention for its large bodies of high grade silver-lead ore, and particularly on the Arizona, where a new reduction plant is going up. The Silver Belt was operated as long ago as the '60s when its product was smelted nearby by primitive methods.

ENGAGEMENT MADE PUBLIC AT PARTY

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

On Wednesday, at the Yavapai Club, Miss Marjorie Milnes, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Milnes of this city, entertained at luncheon 15 of her intimate friends, the occasion being the announcement of her approaching marriage to Mr. Lyle Abbott, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Abbott, of Phoenix, and city editor of the Arizona Republican.

Pink and white constituted a color scheme for the table decorations and the menu. Gracing the table as a centerpiece was a slipper of pink roses containing individual favors and surmounted by a veiled Kewpie bride clasping a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Cecil Bruner roses were banded at the ends of the table. Hand-painted place-cards of pink roses held the announcement inscribed upon the heart or roses, and upon cupids. The rose-petal bon-bons and nut baskets carried out the decorative idea.

Mrs. Jack Abbott, of Phoenix, was chaperone for the party which included Gertrude Kent, Lila Campbell, Esther Ross, Gladys Fox, Millie Marks, Juanita Morrison, Margaret Finn, Anna Lou Richards, Nydia Acker, Eva Behn, Louise Hill, Edna Voigtlander, Isabel Day and Ethel Eads.

NEW ORE BODY ENCOUNTERED AT U. V. EX.

Special Correspondence.

JEROME, Sept. 9. — A persistent rumor, which, however, can not be verified by any official statement, is being circulated to the effect that the ore body recently encountered by the United Verde Extension in sinking from the winze, has proven to be independent of the main ore body. This new ore body is said to be as rich, if not richer, than that of the main body and a valuable addition to the producing capacity of this already famous property.

JUANITA GOLD MINE ACTIVELY OPERATING

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

Arrivals yesterday from Crook canyon reported the Juanita mine again active, under the direction of D. A. Seaman, a member of the company, but who is operating on an individual basis. A small force of miners is employed for the present, but later the mill on the property is to be put into action. A large shipment of supplies left the city yesterday by Ruffner's freight teams. The Juanita resuming is due to the old wagon road being re-opened a short time ago.
